MECHANICAL CIRCULATORY SUPPORT: STATE OF THE ART

May 17, 2014 – 8:30 am-3:30 pm
Li Ka Shing Center for Learning and Knowledge
Stanford, CA

STATEMENT OF NEED

This CME workshop seeks to improve the knowledge of physicians regarding appropriate options in mechanical circulatory support (MCS) for patients with end stage heart failure and management of these patients before and after receiving MCS. We will employ didactic lectures, interactive cases, and panel discussions to improve learner's knowledge of appropriate timing of referral for MCS, and appropriate types of MCS.

TARGET AUDIENCE

This regional conference is designed to meet the educational needs of physicians, nurse practitioners and nurses, who specialize in cardiology or cardiothoracic surgery.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to:

- Integrate clinical criteria to refer patients who may benefit from mechanical circulatory support
- Differentiate the types of mechanical circulatory support and the specific clinical scenarios for their use
- Develop strategies to support and manage patients prior to MCS based on the latest development in treatment of these patients
- Develop strategies to manage post MCS complications based on the latest development in treatment of these patients

ACCREDITATION

The Stanford University School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

CREDIT DESIGNATION

Stanford University School of Medicine designates this live activity for a maximum of 6.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)[™]. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

The California Board of Registered Nursing recognizes that Continuing Medical Education (CME) is acceptable for meeting RN continuing education requirements, as long as the course is certified for AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)[™] (rn.ca.gov). Nurses will receive a Certificate of Attendance following this activity that may be used for license renewal.

CANCELLATION POLICY

A written notice of cancellation must be received by April 26, 2014. A $75.00 cancellation fee will be assessed at that time; after that date, cancellation refund requests cannot be honored. Program materials cannot be guaranteed unless enrollment is received less than April 26, 2014 to the course. Stanford University School of Medicine reserves the right to cancel this program; in the event of cancellation, course fees will be fully refunded.
