

Single-Use Accounts (SUA) SUA Connection for Suppliers

A user-friendly portal to your SUA payment information – all in one place – so you can view and manage payments, access remittance data, and quickly resolve issues

At J.P. Morgan, we understand that payment solutions have to work for buyers and their suppliers. Our goal is to give you tools, options and support that allow you to access SUA payment information in the way that works best for your organization. That's why we developed SUA Connection: to make it simple for you to process SUA payments – and support your customers' programs.

What is SUA Connection?

An online portal where you can view and manage SUA payment information from any of your customers, SUA Connection gives you easy access to transaction and remittance data to help you troubleshoot payment issues and streamline reconciliation. With SUA Connection, you can:

- See payments waiting to be processed and the number of days remaining before they expire.
- Review payment declines and reasons why, as well as any payments missed.
- View any account number to see if it allows multiple authorizations, as well as the amount remaining and any posted transactions.
- Download aggregate remittance data and any detail provided by your customers.
- Maintain profile, preference and contact information for your organization.
- Control access and assign customers to the right users in your organization.

Why is it different?

Unlike some sites with complex interfaces and multiple applications, SUA Connection is:

- Easy to navigate with only a minimal learning curve and no cost to use it.
- Built based on input from suppliers like you, so you can get in quickly, find what you need and get back to your day.
- Designed to be intuitive and allow for optimal self-service, backed by a extensive Help function and a Support Desk.

The screenshot displays the J.P. Morgan SUA Connection interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with 'Home' and 'Exports' links. A reminder banner asks to review the company profile. The main section is titled 'Payments at a Glance' and features three summary cards: '21 Payments to Process', '1 Payments with Declines', and '0 Missed Payments (Past 30 days)'. Below these cards is a table titled 'All Payments > Payments to Process'. The table has columns for Customer Name, Account Information, Payment Amount, Payment ID, Status, Days to Process, and Details. The first row shows 'Teresa's Cookie Factory' with a payment of $2,341.13 USD, status 'Open', and 1 day remaining. The second row shows 'Carpet Installers Premium' with a payment of $4,131.26 USD, status 'Open with Declines', and 2 days remaining. The third row shows 'Rachels Restaurant' with a payment of $896.63 USD, status 'Open', and 9 days remaining. The fourth row shows another 'Rachels Restaurant' entry with a payment of $4.59 USD, status 'Open', and 9 days remaining. The table includes a search filter for 'Payment ID' and a 'SEARCH THIS TABLE' button. At the bottom of the table, there's a pagination control showing '1 - 10 of 21 Items' and a 'Refresh' button. The footer contains copyright information for 2017 JPMorgan Chase & Co. and links to 'Privacy Policy & Disclosures' and 'Terms & Conditions'.

What's the benefit to me as a supplier?

In addition to giving you greater control over your SUA payments and another layer of insight and support, SUA Connection provides the following key benefits:

- You can troubleshoot a problem with a payment without playing phone tag or trading emails with your customer. Unlike the often cryptic messages on your POS terminal, SUA Connection makes it easier to understand why a charge was declined. And if you still have questions, you can call the Support Desk.
